During 1995 to 2018, the single mother prevalence for Black children, at 45.2 percent, was over three times that of White children, at 13.6 %

More than half (51.2%) of all Black children lived with one parent in 2022, compared with about one in five (21.3%) of white children.

You're so delusional I genuinely feel bad

Well first, I bet the single mother rate was not 70%

I furthermore doubt they were mass shooting each other every weekend.

Extendo-more, I doubt crack addiction was as big of a problem as it is now

Must I continue?
